

LGBT Civil Rights

THE PROBLEM

Lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people continue to face significant legal barriers to equality in the United States. Far too many jurisdictions allow discrimination in employment, housing, and places of public accommodation; fail to extend domestic partner benefits to same-sex couples; and lack pro-equality policies, including anti-bullying policies, in schools. Bullying affects children in tragic ways, with nearly one in four LGB teenagers and 30 percent of transgender individuals attempting suicide.<sup>1</sup> LGBT individuals are more likely to be victims of hate crimes than any other group and hate-crime murders against LGBT individuals reached an all-time high in 2011.<sup>2</sup> Municipalities are expanding legal protections for LGBT individuals, and there is ample room for continued leadership at the local level.

THE SOLUTION

Local governments possess a wide range of options to protect LGBT rights and further the goals of inclusion and acceptance. Among these options are: (1) adopting equal municipal employment practices, (2) prohibiting discrimination by private sector employers and businesses, (3) providing domestic-partner benefits for same-sex couples, (4) establishing anti-bullying and other inclusionary protocols in schools, and (5) fostering meaningful community engagement on LGBT issues. The authority of municipalities to pass legislation in these areas often depends on their home rule powers.<sup>3</sup>

POLICY ISSUES

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYMENT PRACTICES: One of the most effective ways that municipalities can protect LGBT rights is by treating their employees equally regardless of sexual orientation or gender identity. By local ordinance, over 100 municipalities, including Houston and Memphis, prohibit discrimination by government offices in hiring, promotion, job assignment, and other employment practices.<sup>4</sup> Local governments are also enacting provisions extending domestic partner benefits to their workers. Many cities and counties, such as San Antonio, extend benefits like health insurance to the significant others of all their employees, regardless of sexual orientation.<sup>5</sup> Other cities, like Los Angeles and Minneapolis, have mandated that all private employers contracting with the local government must similarly extend benefits to same-sex couples.<sup>6</sup>

PROHIBITIONS ON DISCRIMINATION IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR: Many local governments require private businesses to treat their employees and customers equally in employment and the provision of housing and public accommodation. One hundred and seventy five municipalities and counties in every region of the country have enacted ordinances, prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. These include Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago, Fort Worth, New York City, Salt Lake City, and little Susquehanna Township, PA. Nearly all of these also prohibit discrimination on the basis of gender identity. In order to comply with the First Amendment, these laws include exemptions for religious organizations, although case law suggests that municipal anti-discrimination ordinances can be extended to cover all non-ministerial employees.<sup>7</sup>

YOUTH EDUCATION AND ANTI-BULLYING POLICIES: In an effort to protect children, school districts and local governments are enacting strict new anti-bullying provisions that specifically address sexual orientation and gender identity. Often, like in Tehachapi, CA, these provisions are adopted after the death of a student who was a victim of bullying.<sup>8</sup>

Many municipalities, including Charlotte, Dallas, Fort Worth, Johnstown, NY, and Oklahoma City, have forbidden bullying by students or teachers based on sexual orientation or gender identity.<sup>9</sup> In many districts, violation of the policy can lead to expulsion. Some districts have gone a step further and taken effort to foster an affirmative sense of inclusion. Broward County, FL schools recognized October as LGBT History Month;<sup>10</sup> teachers and principals have supported the creation of Gay-Straight Alliance chapters in the high schools of Pittsburgh suburbs;<sup>11</sup> and many school districts are training teachers and educating students about diverse family arrangements and ways to support LGBT students.<sup>12</sup>

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT: By adopting public policy resolutions, local governments further the goal of inclusion. These resolutions serve to affirm that local governments officially condemn prejudice based on sexual orientation and intend to treat LGBT individuals as full and equal citizens.<sup>13</sup> Some cities, like Chicago, have created advisory councils or task forces designed to educate the city council and conduct outreach into the community.<sup>14</sup> Outreach efforts focus on education by providing workshops and presentations to schools, religious institutions, youth agencies, and community groups. Other cities, like New York City, task their human rights commissions not only with these duties but also with the power to investigate and punish violations of anti-discrimination law.<sup>15</sup>

LANDSCAPE AND RESOURCES

Human Rights Campaign is a national organization that tracks municipal legislation, publishes the comprehensive Municipal Equality Index, and advocates for an end to sexual orientation discrimination. The Transgender Law and Policy Institute maintains a list of state and local laws on gender identity and provides legal, medical, and social science resources to advocates. The Sylvia Rivera Law Project addresses the particular problems faced by low-income transgender individuals and transgender people of color. Movement

Advancement Project maintains a map and data on the percentage of workers legally required to be treated equally regardless of sexual orientation or gender identity in the private sector.<sup>16</sup> Equality Florida organizes, lobbies, and educates on behalf of the LGBT community in the Sunshine State. The Center for Popular Democracy provides legal, strategy, and organizing support to local campaigns on these issues.
